HRG LAUNCHES GROUND TRANSPORTATION SOLUTION

International corporate travel services company Hogg Robinson Group (HRG) has launched an innovative ground transportation solution. HRG Ground Transportation™ is the first fully integrated service available in the industry and enables businesses to incorporate their ground transportation requirements into corporate travel programmes to deliver real savings in cost, time and resources.

Managing ground transportation can be both complex and time consuming. Companies are becoming increasingly aware of the lack of policy and data control they have over this area of spend and are recognising the benefits associated with effective management.

HRG Ground Transportation™ has been designed specifically for HRG in association with specialist solutions provider GroundScope. The service enables all taxi, chauffeur cars and limousine bookings to be made at the same time as those for air travel and hotel accommodation, providing full visibility of spend and compliance to travel policy. In addition, the service is fully integrated with Global Distribution Systems (GDS), so ground transportation bookings are automatically updated if any amendments are made to other aspects of the travel arrangements, saving both time and money. The solution will initially roll-out across the UK with other European markets following later this year.

Brian Merry, Director of Products at HRG, says: "HRG Ground Transportation enables companies to consolidate their ground transportation spend and provides vital information about what is being spent where, giving businesses better control than ever before.

"Our bespoke solution accesses a variety of international and local suppliers, including clients' own preferred suppliers as required, to identify the most economical and efficient means of transportation. All suppliers are pre-approved to offer complete peace of mind to clients and ensure that their employees are safe and secure when travelling on the road wherever in the world they may be."
